

JFA, now in its 17th year of publication, is an interdisciplinary quarterly devoted to the study of the fantastic in Literature, Art, Drama, Film and Popular Media. It is published by the International Association for the Fantastic in the Arts at Idaho State University, where production offices are located. Articles are fully refereed and are indexed in the MLA Bibliography.

Like the International Conference on the Fantastic in the Arts, from which it was generated, the Journal of the Fantastic in the Arts welcomes papers on all aspects of the fantastic in English, American, French, Spanish, German and other national literatures, as well as interdisciplinary approaches including music, philosophy, sociology, psychology, political science, and religion. All papers are in English.

We prefer electronic submissions as attached files via email, followed by hard copy, but we also accept submissions on disk, accompanied by hard copy. Since the refereeing process is anonymous, the author's name should not appear on the text file itself. Citations should follow MLA parenthetical style. Submissions should be emailed, with a covering message, to Editor Brian Attebery
jfa@isu.edu
